Personal profile

I am dedicated, hardworking and organised. I enjoy talking to people whilst also being able to work alone without much interaction with people face to face. I think I would thrive in a customer facing role as well as more behind the scenes roles.

Skills

Independence

As a member of the technical team for a local Drama production, I have to research theatrical lighting techniques and how I could make theatrical lighting work on our stage for the Drama show which I am doing lighting for as I don't have experience with theatrical lighting and needed to look into it to make everything look as good and professional as possible.

Creativity / Innovation

As a member of the technical team for a local Pantomime production, I have to create all the cues for a pantomime, from scratch, meaning I had to be creative and find out different ways to make the lighting different and stand out from other shows. I do this every year and have to restart all of my cues from scratch for every new show that we do.

Attention to detail / Observation

I do lighting for productions, meaning I have an eye for detail and tend to notice small details which aren't don't seem right, and will correct them accordingly.

Organising / Time management

As I am currently taking a T-Level in IT in college, I have to balance my time so that I can fit in all my homework and revision, as well as finding time in the week to do an additional course that I take (CyberEPQ) as most of that work needs doing in my own free time.

Teamwork

When I was taking my Sports Leaders qualification, I had to work with my colleagues so that we could successfully provide fun activities for the attendees of the events which we were involved with. Each event was a different group so I am able to work with any and all different people due to these experiences.
